

SIX WORD STORIES:

Ernest Hemingway was famous for his many works, but one particular work was a six word story he wrote on a bet: "baby shoes for sale: never worn." I was inspired by this story and tried my own attempts:*

- Relationship wanted. Sex needed. Which one?
- Uni finished. Free time. Now what?
- Love wanted. Not noticed. Forever lonely.
- Heart works hard because pressure's high.
- Window dress. Expensive. Can only look.
- Waiting Central aka a doctor's office.
- Wedding. Reception. Planning. Stress = Bridezilla.
- Stood up. Broken up. Lonely girl.
- Skipped school. Saw my teacher...shit!
- Loved smokes. Cancer loved me back.
- Divorce? Of course! 'Cos you cheated!
- Remembrance Day. Last post. Tears shed.
- Nine months. Waited. No heartbeat. Stillborn.
